Alton, Ill., Oct. 25.—John Bunzle and Yerkes Hagerman, both employes of the C., P. & St. L. R. R., were crushed by cars while at work to-day. Bunzle's injuries, it is feared, will prove faisi. The men were working under a freight car in the yards when several loaded cars bumped into them, dragging the men a distance of twenty-five feet down an incline. The escape from instant death was miraculous.

TWO NEW NAPOLEON BOOKS.

Lord Rosebery and Mr. Clement Shorter Have Written of the French Soldier's Life at St. Helena.

SPECIAL BY CARLIE. London, Oct. 21 .- (Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Company.)-One Hierary secret which is now out has been well kept during the last twelve months.

While the eyes of the political world have been fixed on Lord Rosebery, awaiting and fearing the moment when he would see fit to reveal himself, Lord Rosebery, the author, has been quietly completing his study of Napoleon. The volume, which contains 330 pages, deals mainly with Napoleon's residence at St. Helena. It is said the noble author has written the work in order to lay a sort of literary ghost that has been haunting him for some time.

Apropos of Lord Rosebery's Napoleon, Mr. Clement Shorter has been engaged for some time upon a volume bearing the title of "Napoleon at St. Helena," with which is incorporated some hitherto unknown correspondence by Thomas Brooke, the Secre-tary of the British Government in the is-land during Napoleon's sojourn. A portion of the book is to be published serially in the Sphere, of which Mr. Shorter is editor.

Shorter is editor.

Mr. Clement Scott prints in his Free Lance a letter from his Rome correspondent, which says it is useless for English publishers to continue offering millions of francs to the Duke of the Abruzzi for his still unwritten book on the North Pole extendition or leave sums for many locations. pedition, or large sums for magnaine arti-cles, for nothing will be published any cles, for nothing will be published any-where in any shape until the whole work appears officially. Then all the profits will go to charity.

WHAT IS SAID

OF NEW BOOKS.

In the preface of his work, "Taxation in Missouri," Mr. Frederick N. Judeon of the St. Louis bar says: "The study of Missouri taxation, in the course of professional duty, has convinced me that the confessed fallure of the system in securing equality of taxation is not only for lawyers, but for all citizens, the most serious question of our time. That conviction has suggested this work."

Beginning with the entry of Missouri into the control of the United States with the Louisiana Purchase, Mr. Judson talks about "Taxation under Territorial Government," Exposition, held at the Mercantile Chib yesterday, reports were handed in by workand its development into "Taxation under the Constitution of 1820." It is interesting to note that the author has made his book ing committees, which indicate that Charter Amendments Nos. 4 and 5, which will to note that the author has made his book assure the World's Fair, will be carried in the coming election.

The work of educating voters throughout the city and State has been pushed with tremendous vigor and success. O'Month Month Personne 12. this instorical summary, necessary to a stody of the development of present conditions, taxation as it is to-day is considered. These subjects are discussed: "Property Exempt From Taxation," "The State Doard of Equalization," "Assessments by State Board of Equalization," "Taxation on Banks, Trust Companies and Insurance Companies," "Local Equation," "Taxation of Merchants Land Manuncaturers," "Inheritance Tax in Missouri, "Local Taxation Chaer the Censulation," "Local Taxation of Assessments for Poolic Improvements," "General Property Tax," "Confection of Desinquent Taxes, "Remodies of the Taxpayer Against Hiegal Taxation," "Fallure of General Property Tax in Securing Uniformity of Assessment," and "Fallure of General Taxes, "Remodies of the Invation of the future, discusses "Proposed Amandments," "The Taxation of Mortgages," "Taxation of Franchises," and "The Single Taxers. This inquiry and study of the subject concludes with a review of "Effective Features of Our Taxing System," "Inadequacy of Judicial Rememby for Inequalities of Assessment," "Separate Sources of State and Local Revenue Requirea," "The Limitation of the Tax Rate Should Be Aujusted to Modern Conditions," "Abolition of All Personal Inquisitions and Returns," "Effective Property Tax," "Efficiency and Equality in Taxation," "Income Tax and Property Tax," "Taxation of Merchanis and Alamufacturers" and "Constitutional and Practical Limitations Upon the Taxing Power."

Maurice Thompson's story of Assessment.

Rations Upon the Taxing Power. Maurice Thompson's story of American Maurice Thompson's story of American life, "Alice in Oid Vincennes," is now selling at the rate of 3,50 copies a day. From Canada came an order for 19,000 copies, a very unusual one from the Dominion, where the sale of books is necessarily limited. A fortnight after publication 49,000 copies of the book had been sold. It is now a brief month after publication, and the book is entering upon its 70,000, and from present indication it seems destined to be one of the "big seilers" of the season.

One of the sarliest authors to contribute to the Century Magazine for 1901 will be Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, whose name will appear rather unfamiliar, as she now signs her stories Frances Hodgson Townesend. It is not too much to say that a veritable "year of romance" will be introduced by the Century for 1901.

be unpatriotic enough to interfere with these men while doing their work on election day.

Chairman William H. Thempson of the Firence Committee stated that the work of completing the $3,00,00 was progressing, but would be pushed forward with renewel vigor immediately after the election. He is confident that enough large subscriptions can be raised after the amendments have been passed to complete the amount.

A. H. Frederick, president of the Board of City Assessors, is in receipts of figures from State Auditor J. N. Selbert, which show that the State can repay the $1,000,600 appropriated by amendment No. 5 in two years without one cent of taxation. His statement is as follows:

"The total assessment valuation of the State, real and personal, is $1,152,91.25; State indebtedness—Bonds, $1,357,90; school certificates, $4,335,335; total, $5,230,533, Annual interest on above debt, $16,005. The present condition of the sinking fund is $174,817. The minimum annual payment in reduction of debt is $250,000, so that the State can repay the $1,000,000 in two years without any taxation whatever, as the total interest and payment to sinking fund is only $566,046, as against receipts available for this purpose of $1,155,691. J. M. Barrle has written a new story for Charles Scribner's Sons, which will make its first appearance in Scribner's Magazine in 1901. Another feature of the magazine for next year will be "Mrs. Gilbert's Stage Reminiscences." The text will be accompanied by illustrations of a most interesting character, to which Mrs. Gilbert's and Mr. Evert Jassen Wendell's collections will contribute. Still another important feature will be a three-part story by Kate Douglas Wiggin, while General Greene will present "The Story of the Regular Army." There will, too, be a new series on "The Workers." by Walter A. Wyckoff, and articles by Theodors Roosevelt and stories and articles by Richard Harding Davis.

In his new preface to the edition of "A Kentucky Cardinal and Aftermath," which will be illustrated by Hugh Thomson and published immediately by The Macmillan Company, Mr. James Lane Allen has taken the opportunity to speak in an interesting way of his methods of work, and of the Kentucky country whence all his stories have sprung. Not without interest too will be the insight which the preface will give into his methods of observing nature. His subtle appreciation of a piece of woodland or the sweep of a landscape is by no means the least source of his charm as a writer.

the least source of his charm as a writer.

In "Penelcpe's Irish Experiences," by Kate Douglas Wiggin, the readers of the Atlantic Monthly will have the third and final group of the delightful Penelope papers. This charming heroine has always insisted upon viewing the scenery and customs and people of Great Britain through her own honest and sparkling American eyes, and her adventures on Irish turf are as revelatory of the American temperament as they are true to the soil of Ireland. Mrs. Wiggin knows her Ireland too well to forget a touch of Ceitle romance, and a pretty love story develops in connection with our old friend Salemina. The five divisions of the book are represented by Leinster, Munster, Ulster, Connaught and Royal Meath. Mrs. Wiggins has never done a more clever and delicious story than the "Irish Experiences," which will alpear in the Atlantic as a six-part serial, beginning in November, 1909.

Miss Sarah Orne Jeweit has just com-pleted an American historical romance, which will appear as a serial in the At-lantic Monthly, beginning in November, 1900. Its title is "The Tory Lover." The romance opens in the rich provincial neighborhood of the Piscataqua River, uson ground familiar to the readers of Miss Jewett's short stories. It is concerned with the early affairs of the Revolution; with the exiled Loyaliats, whose adventures afford a new field for historical fiction, and with the fortunes of the frigate Ranger on the French and English coasts, Readers who are curlous as to liferary coincidences may be interested to know that Miss Jewett has been occupied with this story for several years, and that her singularly spirited picture of John Paul Jones, who is one of the here's of the tale, was composed before the publication of "Richard Carvel."

Mr. Hamlin Garland's new novel, "Her Mr. Hamlin Garland's new novel, "Her Mountain Lover," is to appear first serially in The Century Magazine beginning with November. The here is a young Colorado renchman who is sent to London to place shares in a Western mine. One of the most striking incidents in the story is the setting up of a Western camp in English fields, the affair being put through in true cowboy style.

D. Appleton & Company are publishing o-day. Hamiin Garland's "The Earle's leart," a romance of F. Anstey, author of "Vice Versa," entitled "The Brass Botle," and "The Art of Writing English," by Meklejohn of the University of Andrew.

What should be an entertaining work in belies lettres will come from the press of J. B. Lappincott Company within the fortnight under the title of "Rambies in Colonial Byways," in two volumes. The author is Rufus Rockwell Wilson, who tells of his own personal rambies through famous places and byways rich with Celonial associations. His object is especially to contrast the old time with the present, showing the changes that have been wrought by the telegraph, railroad, etc. The volumes will be well flustrated with half-tone and photograyure reproductions of photographs.

Charles Scribner's Sons are publishing to-day "The American Slave Trade," by John R. Spears, with illustrations by Walter Ap-pleton Clark; "Mosswa and Others of the Boundaries," by W. A. Frazer, with illus-trations by Arthur Hemling; "A Study of Engilsh and American Poets," by Professor J. Scott Clark; "The Queen Versus Billy and Other Stories," by Lloyd Osbourne, and a collection of railway stories by Cy War-man, entitled "Short Rails," Harper & Brothers have just accepted a new novel by E. W. Townsend, author of "Chimmie Fadden." It is probable that it will appear in one of the Harper publi-cations before its presentation in book form. It is entitled "incomes," and it is a story of New York life, defiling with society and with the "other haif."

The Macmillan Company is publishing a new and cheaper cellion of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden." This edition con-mains all the text of the original ciliton, to-gether with a photographic frontispiece showing the entrance to the garden. The publishers amounce a new edition of "The Solitary Summer," by the same author.

Solitary Summer," by the same author.

Mr. Kipling is at his Rottingdean home, where an American friend recently found him hard at work upon some new animal stories. They are what the author calls his "Just-so Stories." 'I have finished two already," said Mr. Kipling, "and in a month I'll send over a third." The author then explained that one of the stories was in reply to a little boy in the West, who liked his other "Just-so" stories, and told Mr. Kipling that he had a pussy of which he was very fond, and "would Mr. Kipling tell him something about pussy." "That rather tickled me," said the author, "and so I'm going to tell the little chap in one of the stories, 'How Pussy Got Her Purr."

Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis will present her recollections of Hawthorne, the Alcotts, Emerson and others of the Concord group in an article which will appear in the November Scribner's. She says that Hawthorne 'was a rather short, powerfully built man, gentle and low-voiced, with a sly clusive humor gleaming sometimes in his watchful gray eyes. shop head—is no idea of the singular mel-ancholy charm of his face." The Novem-ber Scribner's will also contain a story by Henry James about "a woman with a past." Henry B. Fuller's new novel is called "The Last Refuge: A Sicilian Romance," published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. After some play and nonsense, and some seriousness, the hero of the book found that the last refuge is duty.

Eliza Orne White, author of "Engaging Books for Children," has just come out with a new volume, "Ednah and Her Brother," which is up to the mark.

which is up to the mark.

The new Webster's International Dictionary is a bulky volume which contains the result of much effort on the part of learned men. This present edition comes out now ten years after Webster's International was published. (G. and C. Merriam Company, Sprinsfield, Mass.) Doctor W. T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education, has acted as editor in chief. He says of this edition: "Especial pains has been taken to avoid that besetting sin or lexicographers, the resorting to mere synonyms as definitions, with the omission of specific differences, in order to secure concluences and save labor."

Texarkana Cotton Crop Double.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Texarkana, Tex., Oct. 2i.—From the commencement of the present cotton season up to this time 3.702 bales of cotton have been marketed at this place. The table will compare doubly with the same time last year. The condition, however, is largely attributable to additional advantages over last year in that a new cotton region has been opened at Texarkana by the completion of the Texarkana, Shreveport and Natchez Railroad, this point securing aimost the entire consignment of cotton from said section. The increase of cotton buyers over last year has also served as a stimulus to the present increase receipts.

NEW BLOUSE ETON.

One of the Popular Models in Outdoor Garments.

Russian blouses, or blouse Etons, ar smong the recent novelties for winter out-side garments. They are developed in heavy cloth and elaborately trimmed with gold or silver braid, fancy buttons, and not in-frequently have white cloth or velvet vests, strapped with braid in strictly military

The handsome blouse illustrated is made The handsome boose misstands is made of rich bronze velour, and lined with a deli-cate pink brocade.

The back is perfectly fitted, displaying no fullness at the waist line. A smooth ad-justment is maintained by using an under-arm gore. The fronts are double-breasted, the right side crossing over and fastening invisibly on the left under a band of sable. It forms in a decided blouse over the shaped belt.

Two rows of fancy gold braid are applied down the center front, and straps reaching from these to the fur edging form a decidedly attractive finish.

The high band turn-down collar is trimmed with fur and finished with gold trimmed with fur and finished with gold braid.

The sleeve fits the arm closely from shoulder to elbow, but flares widely at the hand, where the fullness is gathered and arranged on a narrow wristband, which is fastened with a hook and invisible eye. The sleeves droop over the fur-trimmed band in a very quaint manner.

The garment may be made single-breasted and finished with braids, as shown in the small design. If developed in cloth, a velvet collar and wristbands make a stylish finish. finish.

To make the blouse in the medium size will require one and three-fourths yards of forty-four, or three and three-fourths yards of twenty-two-inch material. The pattern, No. Sill., is cut in sizes for a 22, 24, 26, 23, 49 and 42 inch bust measure.
